These last years have been a complicated time for all of us. It's like we've been wandering through a forest, and we've found some bright spots and clearings along the way, but we aren't out of the woods yet. As a community, we need to help each other through.

UUSF is in a more stable place than in the worst of it. Rental income isn't back to 100%, but we've been able to return to in-person, at least partly. And we have a lot of hope for the future. But we still need your support and generosity to make it through.

If you'd like to pledge online, you can do so at uusf.org/pledge. We also mailed pledge forms to everyone, and we will have them available after the service each Sunday in March if you would rather fill it out in paper. Please get your pledges in by the end of March!

Journey To Wholeness: Educating Ourselves Through the Arts

If we are serious about dismantling structural racism, we have a lot to learn. Our principles already call upon us to support one another in spiritual growth. One way to begin is by shared exploration of the cultural riches given to us by peoples of the world majority. Opportunity of the week: April 3rd, 7:30 pm at Fort Mason Center for Arts & Culture: Jaco Wong conducts “Inkling/Pictures at an Exhibition: A Multimedia Orchestra Experience” described as “a unique intersection between orchestral music, abstract animation and neuroscience.” For more information and tickets go to bit.ly/pictures-formason. and If you'd like to be connected with other UUSF members or friends who are interested in attending email us at racialjustice.info@uusf.org.

Seeking Your Most Heartfelt and Creative Donations for the UUSF Auction!

Stand by Me
UUSF ANNUAL
FUNDRAISING EVENT

We on the Auction Committee are absolutely thrilled to be planning our auction festivities for next month. We have asked you to “Stand by Me” in song, and we are now asking you to Stand By Us in the courtyard, where we are going to hold the live auction and a big party on Sunday, April 24! Tickets are on sale at bit.ly/uuauctiontix and we would love to know if you are coming!

Of course, the live event is just one component of our auction. We are once again holding the super-popular Online Silent Auction for the week prior to the event. The Online Silent Auction goes live on Saturday, April 16 and lasts through Saturday, April 23. These combined events are only as vibrant as they are because of the deep generosity and endless creativity of the UUSF community. Each year, we are so grateful to receive offers of time at vacation homes, hours of professional services, bottles of wine, and home-hosted parties. People donate fine art as well as home-cooked meals. Do you have something that you'd feel joyful sharing with the community? We'd love to talk to you about the possibilities.

If you feel like you'd like to donate, but aren't quite sure what to donate, Sue Anthony has a wonderful gift of being able to chat with you about your talents. If you'd like a little coaching, Sue is available by email at susan.J.Anthony@comcast.net and she will also be at an auction table after services on Sundays. If you already know what you want to donate -- thank you! We have an intake form set up bit.ly/uuauctiondonate to take in all the details of your item plus pictures of it.

Quality Wine Bottle Donations Desperately Needed for Stand By Me Auction!!!

We need your wine bottle donations in order to create two cases of wine to auction off at this year's auction. Please consider donating a $15+ bottle of wine to support this major fundraising event for the UUSF! Bottles can be dropped off at Susan Anthony's home or on Sunday at the church.

Contact Susan at susan.j.anthony@comcast.net for more information.

Minister's Book Group: Wednesday, March 30, 6:30-8 pm

Led by Rev. Vanessa Rush Southern, Senior Minister. This month's book is "Decolonizing Wealth: Indigenous Wisdom to Heal Divides and Restore Balance" by Edgar Villanueva. Register at bit.ly/bookgroup3-22

Philanthropy and the models of philanthropic giving, even the whole notion of philanthropy and the way it is structured have been under review and criticism of late. In 2018 Edgar Villanueva was at the front end of this wave of interrogation of the "good" work done by private givers and their foundations and charities. Villanueva asks whether as a model such "good" work mirrors colonial structures, entrenches patterns of inequity, but he brings to the work an alternative, and one grounded in the native traditions of his own community, the Lumbee Tribe. Let's look together at what he has to say – in critique and in offering an alternative.

Welcome to the First Unitarian Universalist Society of San Francisco

Since its founding in 1850 our congregation has been a beacon of religious liberalism in this city. During the Civil War, the Rev. Thomas Starr King was credited with keeping California in the Union. He also challenged racism, raised millions for humanitarian relief and inspired new efforts in education.

Unitarianism and Universalism in America both arose in New England during the American Revolution. Because the roots of both traditions are in the Judeo-Christian tradition, you will see on the walls of our sanctuary two inscriptions:

"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God?" (from the Hebrew prophet Micah) and "The Kingdom of God is within you." (from the Gospels)

Our religious forebears were far more interested in the teaching examples of Jesus than in beliefs about Jesus. Today we agree more about how we strive to treat others than we do about beliefs. Our backgrounds and spiritual orientations are diverse. Among us are people who consider themselves atheists, agnostics, humanists, Christians, Jews, Buddhists, Muslims, Pagans and people guided by other forms of spirituality and belief.

Belief is many things, and so is disbelief. But we are interested in what happens to us when we open our minds to wider truth, our hearts to compassion, and our souls to the call to work for justice and peace.

OUR SOCIETY'S VISION

We, The First Unitarian Universalist Society of San Francisco, delight in our authentic, inclusive congregation that reaches across generations, ethnicities, and differences. We take care of one another, building spiritual community, knowing that we are stronger and accomplish more together. Guided by our responsibility to future generations, we take leadership in shaping a compassionate, sustainable world. Inspired by our courageous heritage and compelled by conscience, we hold one another accountable to work for racial, environmental, and economic justice and the dignity and rights of all.

OUR SOCIETY'S MISSION

As a vibrant, joyous, caring, inclusive community of diverse people, we create a nurturing space for spiritual growth and learning. Based on our shared values, we work together courageously and publicly for human rights, economic justice, and environmental salvation.
