SACReD Dignity: faith communities reclaiming reproductive dignity and autonomy

Today’s offering is for SACRed, an interfaith, intersectional organization that is organizing faith communities to reclaim reproductive dignity and autonomy. The SACReD model is based on the Reproductive Freedom congregations program at the Texas Freedom Network. UUSF, through its Women’s is trying to become an official sponsor of the first convening of the group that will take place, virtually, on January 25-26, 2022. It will be a first-of-its-kind virtual gathering of justice-oriented people of faith, activists, and leaders from the reproductive health, rights, and justice community. Cherisse Scott, the Founder and Executive Director of SisterReach, will be the keynote speaker. Grounded in our shared values of justice, dignity, human rights, compassion, and expansive love, we will discover how faith and reproductive liberation are interdependent through keynotes, panel discussions, and breakout sessions. Learn why our collective voices matter now more than ever in the fight for abortion access and reproductive freedom so you can share the message of faithful reproductive dignity with yourself, your congregations and your communities. Find out more about the organization at: www.sacreddignity.org. And thank you for your generosity this morning!

ABOUT

A lifelong Unitarian Universalist, Rev David Usher is originally Australian. After working as a jackaroo in the outback and then travelling the world he studied for the ministry at the University of Oxford and had ministries in the UK and the USA. He is the author of two books, and was the Founding President of The International Council of Unitarians and Universalists. Now retired, he lives in San Mateo.

Elliott Etzkorn is a pianist and accompanist living in Oakland. He studied at the University of Wisconsin where he accompanied the opera program, many choirs, and individual soloists, and studied piano and composition. After graduating in 2014 he moved to the Bay Area to pursue a career in software engineering. Outside of his involvement with UUSF he organizes a free piano studio in the East Bay as a means of community building, and would love to connect with anyone also interested in that topic.

350  The Ceaseless Flow of Endless Time

1. The ceaseless flow of endless time no one can check or stay; we’ll view the past with no regret, nor future with dismay.

2. The present slips into the past, and dream-like melts away; the breaking of tomorrow’s dawn begins a new today.

3. The past and future ever meet in the eternal now: to make each day a thing complete shall be our New Year vow.

HERE AND NOW
They Are with Us Still
By Kathleen McTigue

In the struggles we choose for ourselves, in the ways we move forward in our lives and bring our world forward with us,

It is right to remember the names of those who gave us strength in this choice of living.
It is right to name the power of hard lives well-lived.

We share a history with those lives. We belong to the same motion.

They too were strengthened by what had gone before.
They too were drawn on by the vision of what might come to be.

Those who lived before us, who struggled for justice and suffered injustice before us, have not melted into the dust, and have not disappeared.

They are with us still.
The lives they lived hold us steady.

Their words remind us and call us back to ourselves. Their courage and love evoke our own.

We, the living, carry them with us: we are their voices, their hands and their hearts.

We take them with us, and with them choose the deeper path of living.
6   Just as Long as I Have Breath

1. Just as long as I have breath, I must answer,
2. Just as long as vision lasts, I must answer,
3. Just as long as my heart beats, I must answer,

“Yes,” to life; though with pain I made my way,
“Yes,” to truth; in my dream and in my dark,
“Yes,” to love; disappointment pierced me through, still with hope I meet each day. If they ask what always: that elusive spark. If they ask what still I kept on loving you. If they ask what I did well, tell them I said, “Yes,” to life.

I did well, tell them I said, “Yes,” to truth.
I did best, tell them I said, “Yes,” to love.

Since its founding in 1850 our congregation has been a beacon of religious liberalism in this city. During the Civil War, the Rev. Thomas Starr King was credited with keeping California in the Union. He also challenged racism, raised millions for humanitarian relief and inspired new efforts in education.

Unitarianism and Universalism in America both arose in New England during the American Revolution. Because the roots of both traditions are in the Judeo-Christian tradition, you will see on the walls of our sanctuary two inscriptions:

"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God?" (from the Hebrew prophet Micah) and “The Kingdom of God is within you.” (from the Gospels)

Our religious forebears were far more interested in the teaching examples of Jesus than in beliefs about Jesus. Today we agree more about how we strive to treat others than we do about beliefs. Our backgrounds and spiritual orientations are diverse. Among us are people who consider themselves atheists, agnostics, humanists, Christians, Jews, Buddhists, Muslims, Pagans and people guided by other forms of spirituality and belief.

Belief is many things, and so is disbelief. But we are interested in what happens to us when we open our minds to wider truth, our hearts to compassion, and our souls to the call to work for justice and peace.

OUR SOCIETY’S VISION

We, The First Unitarian Universalist Society of San Francisco, delight in our authentic, inclusive congregation that reaches across generations, ethnicities, and differences. We take care of one another, building spiritual community, knowing that we are stronger and accomplish more together. Guided by our responsibility to future generations, we take leadership in shaping a compassionate, sustainable world. Inspired by our courageous heritage and compelled by conscience, we hold one another accountable to work for racial, environmental, and economic justice and the dignity and rights of all.

OUR SOCIETY’S MISSION

As a vibrant, joyous, caring, inclusive community of diverse people, we create a nurturing space for spiritual growth and learning. Based on our shared values, we work together courageously and publicly for human rights, economic justice, and environmental salvation.
